Is it any wonder that prepositions create such troubles for students for whom English is a second language? We say we are at the hospital to visit a friend who is in the hospital. We lie in bed but on the couch. We watch a film at the theater but on television. For native speakers, these little words present little difficulty, but try to learn another language, any other language, and you will ...

Learning advanced English grammar doesn't need to be that difficult.. Over the 20 years that I've been teaching English, I've noticed that some learners of the English Language have difficulties with "the details.". It always seems to be the 'exceptions to the rules' that can make things a little harder for them to grasp.
