A pH meter is a scientific instrument that measures the hydrogen-ion activity in water-based solutions, indicating its acidity or alkalinity expressed as pH. The pH meter measures the difference in electrical potential between a pH electrode and a reference electrode, and so the pH meter is sometimes referred to as a "potentiometric pH meter". The difference in electrical potential relates to ...

Optical properties are based on reflectance, transmittance, absorbance, or scatter of light by the product. When a fruit or vegetable is exposed to light, about 4% of the incident light is reflected at the outer surface, causing specular reflectance or gloss, and the remaining 96% of incident energy is transmitted through the surface into the cellular structure of the product where it is ...

The HART Communication Protocol (Highway Addressable Remote Transducer) is a hybrid analog+digital industrial automation open protocol. Its most notable advantage is that it can communicate over legacy 4-20 mA analog instrumentation current loops, sharing the pair of wires used by the analog-only host systems.
