As noted in the Introduction, our intent was to continue to add to our collection of quote mines. This is the first such addition and no fitter subject could be chosen than to address some more quote mines of Charles Darwin. However, since these quotes are not from a single source, as was the case in the original Quote Mine Project, there are some differences in how they are organized. Before ...

Chapter 2 Of the State of Nature 4. To understand political power aright, and derive it from its original, we must consider what estate all men are naturally in, and that is, a state of perfect freedom to order their actions, and dispose of their possessions and persons as they think fit, within the bounds of the law of Nature, without asking leave or depending upon the will of any other man.
