One of the most common fallacies committed by evolutionists on the Internet is the fallacy of the question-begging epithet. This could be considered a specific sub-type of begging the question (the fallacy of merely assuming what one is trying to prove).. With the question-begging epithet, the arguer uses biased (often emotional) language to persuade people rather than using logic.

Logical Fallacies: The Fallacy of the Question-Begging Epithet

In classical rhetoric and logic, begging the question is an informal fallacy that occurs when an argument's premises assume the truth of the conclusion, instead of supporting it. It is a type of circular reasoning: an argument that requires that the desired conclusion be true.This often occurs in an indirect way such that the fallacy's presence is hidden, or at least not easily apparent.
